CGU Summer Class @ SDSU

Once again, CGU will be offering a superb class at SDSU during the summer of 2010. Mary Poplin, a native of Texas, began her career teaching elementary school and special education. Her early work in special education explored theoretical orientations in the field of special education. Every November Mary Poplin offers a “Great Books of Learning and Pedagogy” Qualifying Examination based on the readings from ED 438.

ED 438 From Behaviorism to Postmodernism: Learning & Pedagogical Theories (4 units)

Instructor: Mary Poplin (mary.poplin@cgu.edu)

Philosophic, psychological and socio-political assumptions have yielded a number of distinct pedagogies and learning theories in the 20th Century that shape schools and classrooms. This seminar will examine the philosophic and theoretical underpinnings of five major groups of learning/teaching theories that currently inform work in schools. These include: behaviorism, constructivism, multi-cultural, relational, and critical theories. We will compare these learning/teaching theories historically to views of teaching and learning prior to modernity and explore the impact of postmodern thought as well. Attention will be given to the theories as they impact education 1) across developmental ages, from young children to adults and 2) across the contexts of culture, gender and economic differences. We will also explore epistemologically the way in which these theories suggest very distinct views of what constitutes knowledge.

Day/Time: Friday, 1:00 – 5:30 (7/9, 7/16, 7/23, 7/30)

Saturday, 9:00 – 3:00 (7/10, 7/17, 7/24, 7/31)

The mission of the Doctoral Program in Education offered by San Diego State University and Claremont Graduate University is to develop scholars who are committed to research on democratic schooling, social justice and equal educational outcomes for all students, and the improvement of educational systems serving diverse communities. How can we develop schools that are more responsive to such communities? How can we make sense of the complexity of educational organizations, the communities they serve, and the environments in which they operate? If you are anxious to contribute to the knowledge base that supports creation of educational programs and systems that are more democratic and more effective, the SDSU/CGU Doctoral Program in Education can help you achieve that goal.
