The Steering Committee and members of the campus community in attendance introduced themselves. The co-chairs shared an overview of the Strategic Planning process and the timeline; task force and working group charges; and the importance of an open planning process.

The co-chairs asked for feedback regarding the planning process.

Suggestions from the forum included making the Strategic Planning website accessible from the SDSU Home page and listing the open forum dates in chronological order. There is the possibility of additional task force open forums as the process evolves.

The co-chairs asked for input for the strategic plan.

Discussion included rebuilding of faculty, aspirational goals of the university, and final conclusions of the strategic planning process.

The co-chairs explained the steering committee role will be to review the task force reports and recommendations which will shed light on common issues and overlaps.

The co-chairs reminded of the importance of checking the website often. Resource materials and meeting minutes will be shared throughout the process. Committee reports will be posted as they’re available. The website also includes an email address and public comments section.
